OBJECTABLES

WELL THAT WAS A LOT OF FUN!

Our last batch of cards that launched in the spring were mostly “really nice” and when the dust settled and we looked around at all these nice cards we thought to ourselves
“O.M.F.B.G! What have we become?”.

We have not spent 12 years building the weird and wonderful vortex that Objectables is to destroy it all with a few beautifully painted flowers and some excellent graphic design.

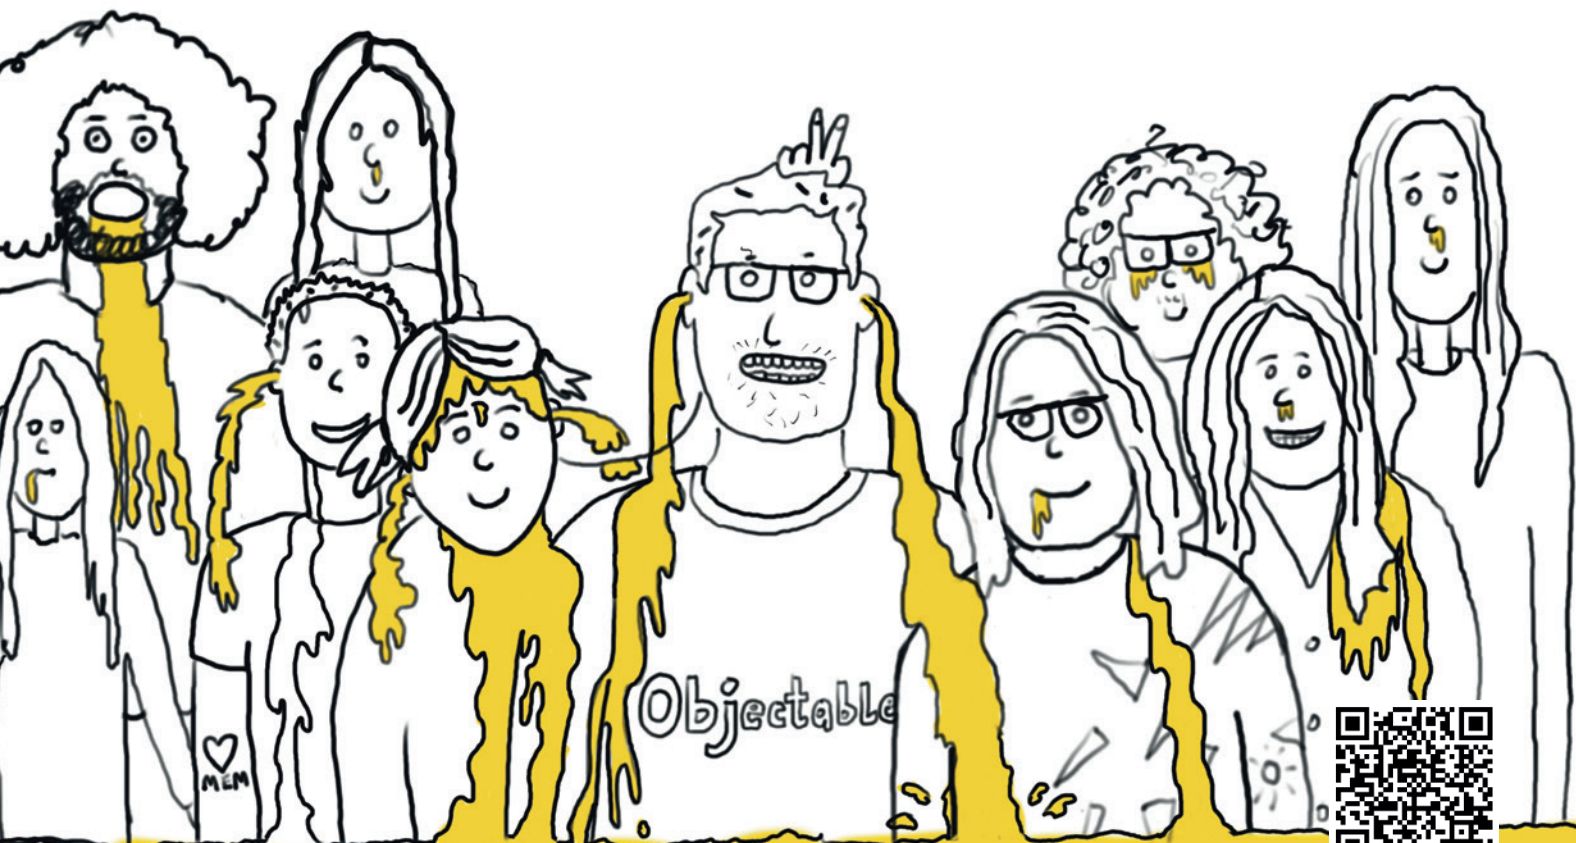

So we vowed to ourselves that our next launch would definitely in no way be nice. “Bring back the weird!” we shouted to ourselves as we buried our heads in The Odd and concentrated all our efforts on our very own reweirding project.

Turns out it was really bloody easy.

The weird poured out of us like hot cheese.

So here you go, a couple of new ranges and some updates of a few others.

We hope you enjoy the weird but also rest assured there is some nice in there too.

GONE TAGGING

Our (almost) award winning range of real photographs of made up graffiti is back. This time we pay homage to the proud British tradition of writing rubbish messages sprayed onto mouldy old sheets hanging off depressing motorway bridges.
